

The Hong Kong Daily Press

No. 7713

號三十七年七月二日

日光精華

HONGKONG, MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 4th, 1882.

香港

號四九英港

PRICE $2⁵⁰ PER MONTH.

SHIPPING.

ARRIVALS.

September 2, MORAY, British steamer, 2,135. Wm. Turner, Calcutta 17th August, Panay 23rd, and Singapore 26th. Opium and General—JARDINE, MATHESON & CO.

September 2, CRESTES, British str., 1,323. Webster, Shanghai 26th August, and Foochow 31st. Tea—BUTTERFIELD & SWINE.

September 2, NINAGO, British steamer, 761. Cass, Canton 2nd September, General—STEINER & CO.

September 2, REVENGE, British str., 636. W. Watt, Saigon 30th August, Rice—TUNG KEE.

September 2, FERNFLOWER, British str., 700. Kelley, Saigon 29th August, General—CAIN.

September 2, GUTHRIE, British steamer, 244. D. Scott, Pakhoi 30th August, Macao 2nd Sept., General—ADAMSON, BELL & CO.

September 2, SILVER BAGG, British bark, 903. Bright, Maryborough (Queensland) 31st July, Ballast—ADAMSON, BELL & CO.

September 2, LOUDOUN CASTLE, British str., 1,615. Kidder, Singapore 26th August, General—ADAMSON, BELL & CO.

September 2, TANSEN, German steamer, 1,790. Druey, Yelcho 27th August, Manila and General—MESSAGERIES MARITIMES.

September 2, CHI-LUEN, Chinese str., 1,193. F. Wallace, Canton 3rd August, General—C. M. S. N. CO.

CLEARANCES AT THE HARBOR Master's OFFICE.

September 2, CHINA, German str., for Swatow.

DUNMATE, British str., for Manila.

BELGIC, British str., for San Francisco.

ADIA, Danish str., for Haiphong.

CYCLONE, British str., for Shanghai.

CLIFTON, British str., for Saigon.

HAINAN, British str., for Hoihow.

CANTON, British str., for Swatow.

CRESTES, British str., for Singapore.

ALBION, British str., for Shanghai.

PELICAN, German str., for Chaco.

DANUBE, British str., for Bangkok.

DEPARTURES.

September 2, HESPERIA, German steamer, for London.

September 2, BELEZIC, British steamer, for San Francisco.

September 2, DIAMANTES, British steamer, for Manila.

September 2, GLANES, British steamer, for Shanghai.

September 2, SUNDA, British steamer, for Singapore.

September 2, SELENO, British steamer, for Yokohama.

September 2, EISL KONIG, German bark, for Cleefoo.

September 2, CHINA, German steamer, for Swatow.

September 3, ACTIV, Danish steamer, for Hoihow.

September 3, CYCLOPS, British steamer, for Shanghai.

September 3, CLIFTON, British steamer, for Saigon.

September 3, CANTON, British steamer, for Swatow.

September 3, OCESTES, British steamer, for Singapore.

September 3, KWANTUNG, British steamer, for Swatow.

September 3, EPERDRE, French bark, for Bangkok.

September 3, PLUL, German bark, for Hamburg.

September 3, MARIE, German bark, for Bangkok.

September 3, BEATRICE, British schooner, for Swan.

PASSENGERS ARRIVED.

Per MORAY, str., from Calcutta. Mr.—Messrs. T. Wilson, and J. Wilson, and 100 Chinese, deck.

Per DEMIA, str., from Saigon—90 Chinese.

Per CANTON, str., from Saigon—1 Chinese.

Per LOUDOUN CASTLE, str., from Singapore—52 Chinese.

Per TANSEN, str., from Yokohama—Mr. and Mrs. Tokitaki, and 7 children, Messrs. Tony, Tsochou, Wu-kwai, Naokihi, Haga, and Leveque.

DEPARTED.

Per SUNDIA, Maru, for Nagasaki and Kobe—9 passengers.

Per EDGAR, str., for Yokohama—Mr. E. H. Whitehead. For San Francisco—Messrs. A. C. Roberts and L. L. Bush.

REPORTS.

The French steamer Tunis reports left Yokohama on the 27th August and had fine weather.

The British steamer Revere reports left Saigon on the 30th August. First part had very fine weather, afterwards a fresh E.N.E. gale.

The British steamer Moray reports left Calcutta on the 17th, Penang 22d, and Singapore 28th August and had fine weather all the passage.

The British steamer Grindalund reports first part of passage moderate and fine weather. The part strong Easterly wind and rain. On the 1st August passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

The British bark Silver Eagle reports left Penang 12th, and Singapore 17th, and had moderate light winds throughout the passage with fair weather. After passing through the Bellingding Channel from Easterly winds to port.

The British steamer Loudoun Castle reports broken down off Damietta, and had repairs effected in Port Said. From Singapore experienced moderate winds and rain. On the 28th August passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 29th August passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 30th August passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 31st August passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 1st September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 2nd September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 3rd September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 4th September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 5th September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 6th September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 7th September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 8th September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 9th September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 10th September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 11th September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 12th September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 13th September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 14th September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 15th September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 16th September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 17th September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 18th September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 19th September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 20th September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 21st September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 22nd September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 23rd September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 24th September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 25th September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 26th September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 27th September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 28th September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 29th September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 30th September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 31st September passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 1st October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 2nd October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 3rd October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 4th October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 5th October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 6th October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 7th October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 8th October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 9th October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 10th October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 11th October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 12th October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 13th October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 14th October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 15th October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 16th October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 17th October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 18th October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 19th October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 20th October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 21st October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 22nd October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 23rd October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 24th October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 25th October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 26th October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 27th October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 28th October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 29th October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 30th October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 31st October passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 1st November passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 2nd November passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 3rd November passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 4th November passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 5th November passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 6th November passed the str. Saito in Hainan Straits.

On the 7th November passed the str. S

NOW ON SALE.

THE CHRONICLE AND DIRECTORY
FOR
CHINA, JAPAN, THE PHILIPPINES, STRAITS SETTLEMENTS, COCHIN CHINA, SIAM, &c.
FOR 1882.
With which is incorporated THE CHINA DIRECTORY.

THE CHRONICLE AND DIRECTORY, which is now in its TWENTIETH YEAR OF PUBLICATION.

has been considerably extended both in the Directory proper and in the Appendix. The ports of CHUNGKING, WEIJIANGWOSTOK, MA-LACCA, and PENANG have been added to the former; whilst the latter includes the NEW ORDER IN COUNCIL for the Government of British Subjects in China and Japan, the Amended TREATY between RUSSIA and CHINA, the Amended TREATY between the UNITED STATES and CHINA, the NEW TREATY between GERMANY and CHINA, a translation of the TREATY between SPAIN and ANNAN signed in 1869 &c.

THE ALPHABETICAL LIST OF FOREIGN RESIDENCES has been increased by upwards of 1,100 names, and gives reference to over 2,000 NEW RESIDENTS.

THE CHRONICLE AND DIRECTORY
is embellished with the following Lithographed MAPS and PLANS:

CODE OF SIGNALS IN USE AT VICTORIA HARBOUR.

MAP OF THE ISLAND OF HONGKONG.

MAP OF THE CITY OF VICTORIA.

MAP OF THE COAST OF CHINA.

MAP OF THE CITY OF CANTON.

MAP OF THE FOREIGN SETTLEMENTS AT SHANGHAI.

MAP OF YOKOHAMA.

MAP OF THE TOWN AND ENVIRONS OF SINGAPORE.

The large Edition contains ONE THOUSAND pages of printed matter. It is indispensable in every Merchant's Office in the Far East and will be found a useful guide to those traveling either on business or pleasure.

THE CHRONICLE AND DIRECTORY, is published in Two Forms—Complete at $5, or with the List of Residents, Port Descriptions and Directories, Plan of Victoria, Code of Signals, &c., at $3.

Orders for Copies may be sent to the Daily Press Office, where it is published, or to the following Agents:

MACAO. Messrs. A. de Mallo & Co.
SWATOW. Messrs. Campbell & Co.
AMOY. Messrs. Wilson, Nichols & Co.
FORMOSA. Messrs. Wilson, Nichols & Co.
FOOCHEE. Messrs. Hodge & Co.
NINGPO. Messrs. Kelly & Walsh, S'għaj.
BRANGAEL. Messrs. Kelly & Walsh.
BRANGAEL. Messrs. Kelly & Walsh and Kolly BETTER POINT. & Walsh, Shanghai.
NAGASAKI. The C. and J. Trading Co.
HOKKO, OSAKA. The C. and J. Trading Co.
YOKOHAMA. Japan Gazette Office.
MANILA. Messrs. Vindula Leyzaga & Co.
SAIGON. Mr. Crichton.
SINGAPORE. Messrs. Soyle & Co.
BANGKOK. Mr. F. A. G. Clement's Sons.
LONDON. Messrs. Geo. Street & Co.
LONDON. Messrs. Bates, Hodge & Co.
SAN FRANCISCO. Mr. L. P. Fisher, 21, Mechanics' Exchange.
NEW YORK. Messrs. S. M. Pottigill & Co.
37, Park Row.
Daily Press Office, 5th February, 1882.

NOTICE.

A. S. WATSON AND CO.,
FAMILY AND DISPENSING
CHEMISTS.

By Appointment to His Excellency the Go-VERNOR and his Royal Highness the DUKE OF EDINBURGH.

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DRUGGISTS, PERFUMERS.

PATENT MEDICINE VENDORS, DRUGGISTS' SUPPLYMEN, AND
AERATED WATER MAKERS.

SHIPS' MEDICINE CHESTS REPUTED, PASSENGER SHIPS SUPPLIED.

NOTICE.—To avoid delay in the execution of Orders, it is particularly requested that all business communications be addressed to the firm, A. S. WATSON AND CO., HONGKONG DISPENSARY. [28]

NOTICES TO CORRESPONDENTS.
Communications on Editorial matters should be addressed to "The Editor," and those business "The Manager," and not to individuals by name.

Correspondents are requested to forward their name and address with communications addressed to the Editor, not for publication, but as evidence of good will.

All letters for publication should be written on one side of the paper only.

Advertisements and Subscriptions which are not ordered for a fixed period will be discontinued until countermanded.

The Daily Press
HONGKONG, SEPTEMBER 4TH, 1882.

The questions put by Sir JOSEPH PHAIS in the House of Commons to the Under Secretary of State on the 27th July certainly appeared well warranted. There has been great delay in the seemingly interminable negotiations on the Ikinin, and the long category of questions put together were plainly intended as a rebuke to a procrastinating Government. As usual, however, Sir CHARLES DILKE was equal to the occasion, answering a string of apparent posers with equal alacrity and terseness. To most of the questions Sir CHARLES had the same laconic
reply—"I did make the statements therein mentioned;" more than this he did not desire to say. When at length he did not come to real business, which was confined to the last two or three questions of the worthy Quaker baronet, Sir CHARLES became a little more communicative and vouchsafed the intelligence that Sir THOMAS WADE's report had been received, adding in reference to the final queries—"The despatch of Lord GRANTVILLE to Sir T. WADE referred to asked for a telegraphic reply to a particular inquiry, and that reply was received accordingly. Papers are about to be laid before Parliament, and in the meanwhile, Her Majesty's Government are considering the course they will pursue." From this it would seem that there is at length a prospect of the Chefoo Convention, and the
long category of questions put together were
plainly intended as a rebuke to a procrasti-
nating Government. As usual, however, Sir
CHARLES DILKE was equal to the occasion,
answering a string of apparent posers with
equal alacrity and terseness. To most of the
questions Sir CHARLES had the same laconic
reply—"I did make the statements therein
mentioned;" more than this he did not
desire to say. When at length he did not
come to real business, which was confined to the last two or three questions of the worthy
Quaker baronet, Sir CHARLES became a little
more communicative and vouchsafed the intelligence that Sir THOMAS WADE's report
had been received, adding in reference to the
final queries—"The despatch of Lord
GRANTVILLE to Sir T. WADE referred
to asked for a telegraphic reply to a
particular inquiry, and that reply was received accordingly. Papers are about to
be laid before Parliament, and in the mean-
while, Her Majesty's Government are considering the course they will pursue." From this it would seem that there is at length a prospect of the Chefoo Convention, and the
long category of questions put together were
plainly intended as a rebuke to a procrasti-
nating Government. As usual, however, Sir
CHARLES DILKE was equal to the occasion,
answering a string of apparent posers with
equal alacrity and terseness. To most of the
questions Sir CHARLES had the same laconic
reply—"I did make the statements therein
mentioned;" more than this he did not
desire to say. When at length he did not
come to real business, which was confined to the last two or three questions of the worthy
Quaker baronet, Sir CHARLES became a little
more communicative and vouchsafed the intelligence that Sir THOMAS WADE's report
had been received, adding in reference to the
final queries—"The despatch of Lord
GRANTVILLE to Sir T. WADE referred
to asked for a telegraphic reply to a
particular inquiry, and that reply was received accordingly. Papers are about to
be laid before Parliament, and in the mean-
while, Her Majesty's Government are considering the course they will pursue." From this it would seem that there is at length a prospect of the Chefoo Convention, and the
long category of questions put together were
plainly intended as a rebuke to a procrasti-
nating Government. As usual, however, Sir
CHARLES DILKE was equal to the occasion,
answering a string of apparent posers with
equal alacrity and terseness. To most of the
questions Sir CHARLES had the same laconic
reply—"I did make the statements therein
mentioned;" more than this he did not
desire to say. When at length he did not
come to real business, which was confined to the last two or three questions of the worthy
Quaker baronet, Sir CHARLES became a little
more communicative and vouchsafed the intelligence that Sir THOMAS WADE's report
had been received, adding in reference to the
final queries—"The despatch of Lord
GRANTVILLE to Sir T. WADE referred
to asked for a telegraphic reply to a
particular inquiry, and that reply was received accordingly. Papers are about to
be laid before Parliament, and in the mean-
while, Her Majesty's Government are considering the course they will pursue." From this it would seem that there is at length a prospect of the Chefoo Convention, and the
long category of questions put together were
plainly intended as a rebuke to a procrasti-
nating Government. As usual, however, Sir
CHARLES DILKE was equal to the occasion,
answering a string of apparent posers with
equal alacrity and terseness. To most of the
questions Sir CHARLES had the same laconic
reply—"I did make the statements therein
mentioned;" more than this he did not
desire to say. When at length he did not
come to real business, which was confined to the last two or three questions of the worthy
Quaker baronet, Sir CHARLES became a little
more communicative and vouchsafed the intelligence that Sir THOMAS WADE's report
had been received, adding in reference to the
final queries—"The despatch of Lord
GRANTVILLE to Sir T. WADE referred
to asked for a telegraphic reply to a
particular inquiry, and that reply was received accordingly. Papers are about to
be laid before Parliament, and in the mean-
while, Her Majesty's Government are considering the course they will pursue." From this it would seem that there is at length a prospect of the Chefoo Convention, and the
long category of questions put together were
plainly intended as a rebuke to a procrasti-
nating Government. As usual, however, Sir
CHARLES DILKE was equal to the occasion,
answering a string of apparent posers with
equal alacrity and terseness. To most of the
questions Sir CHARLES had the same laconic
reply—"I did make the statements therein
mentioned;" more than this he did not
desire to say. When at length he did not
come to real business, which was confined to the last two or three questions of the worthy
Quaker baronet, Sir CHARLES became a little
more communicative and vouchsafed the intelligence that Sir THOMAS WADE's report
had been received, adding in reference to the
final queries—"The despatch of Lord
GRANTVILLE to Sir T. WADE referred
to asked for a telegraphic reply to a
particular inquiry, and that reply was received accordingly. Papers are about to
be laid before Parliament, and in the mean-
while, Her Majesty's Government are considering the course they will pursue." From this it would seem that there is at length a prospect of the Chefoo Convention, and the
long category of questions put together were
plainly intended as a rebuke to a procrasti-
nating Government. As usual, however, Sir
CHARLES DILKE was equal to the occasion,
answering a string of apparent posers with
equal alacrity and terseness. To most of the
questions Sir CHARLES had the same laconic
reply—"I did make the statements therein
mentioned;" more than this he did not
desire to say. When at length he did not
come to real business, which was confined to the
last two or three questions of the worthy
Quaker baronet, Sir CHARLES became a little
more communicative and vouchsafed the intelligence that Sir THOMAS WADE's report
had been received, adding in reference to the
final queries—"The despatch of Lord
GRANTVILLE to Sir T. WADE referred
to asked for a telegraphic reply to a
particular inquiry, and that reply was received accordingly. Papers are about to
be laid before Parliament, and in the mean-
while, Her Majesty's Government are considering the course they will pursue." From this it would seem that there is at length a prospect of the Chefoo Convention, and the
long category of questions put together were
plainly intended as a rebuke to a procrasti-
nating Government. As usual, however, Sir
CHARLES DILKE was equal to the occasion,
answering a string of apparent posers with
equal alacrity and terseness. To most of the
questions Sir CHARLES had the same laconic
reply—"I did make the statements therein
mentioned;" more than this he did not
desire to say. When at length he did not
come to real business, which was confined to the
last two or three questions of the worthy
Quaker baronet, Sir CHARLES became a little
more communicative and vouchsafed the intelligence that Sir THOMAS WADE's report
had been received, adding in reference to the
final queries—"The despatch of Lord
GRANTVILLE to Sir T. WADE referred
to asked for a telegraphic reply to a
particular inquiry, and that reply was received accordingly. Papers are about to
be laid before Parliament, and in the mean-
while, Her Majesty's Government are considering the course they will pursue." From this it would seem that there is at length a prospect of the Chefoo Convention, and the
long category of questions put together were
plainly intended as a rebuke to a procrasti-
nating Government. As usual, however, Sir
CHARLES DILKE was equal to the occasion,
answering a string of apparent posers with
equal alacrity and terseness. To most of the
questions Sir CHARLES had the same laconic
reply—"I did make the statements therein
mentioned;" more than this he did not
desire to say. When at length he did not
come to real business, which was confined to the
last two or three questions of the worthy
Quaker baronet, Sir CHARLES became a little
more communicative and vouchsafed the intelligence that Sir THOMAS WADE's report
had been received, adding in reference to the
final queries—"The despatch of Lord
GRANTVILLE to Sir T. WADE referred
to asked for a telegraphic reply to a
particular inquiry, and that reply was received accordingly. Papers are about to
be laid before Parliament, and in the mean-
while, Her Majesty's Government are considering the course they will pursue." From this it would seem that there is at length a prospect of the Chefoo Convention, and the
long category of questions put together were
plainly intended as a rebuke to a procrasti-
nating Government. As usual, however, Sir
CHARLES DILKE was equal to the occasion,
answering a string of apparent posers with
equal alacrity and terseness. To most of the
questions Sir CHARLES had the same laconic
reply—"I did make the statements therein
mentioned;" more than this he did not
desire to say. When at length he did not
come to real business, which was confined to the
last two or three questions of the worthy
Quaker baronet, Sir CHARLES became a little
more communicative and vouchsafed the intelligence that Sir THOMAS WADE's report
had been received, adding in reference to the
final queries—"The despatch of Lord
GRANTVILLE to Sir T. WADE referred
to asked for a telegraphic reply to a
particular inquiry, and that reply was received accordingly. Papers are about to
be laid before Parliament, and in the mean-
while, Her Majesty's Government are considering the course they will pursue." From this it would seem that there is at length a prospect of the Chefoo Convention, and the
long category of questions put together were
plainly intended as a rebuke to a procrasti-
nating Government. As usual, however, Sir
CHARLES DILKE was equal to the occasion,
answering a string of apparent posers with
equal alacrity and terseness. To most of the
questions Sir CHARLES had the same laconic
reply—"I did make the statements therein
mentioned;" more than this he did not
desire to say. When at length he did not
come to real business, which was confined to the
last two or three questions of the worthy
Quaker baronet, Sir CHARLES became a little
more communicative and vouchsafed the intelligence that Sir THOMAS WADE's report
had been received, adding in reference to the
final queries—"The despatch of Lord
GRANTVILLE to Sir T. WADE referred
to asked for a telegraphic reply to a
particular inquiry, and that reply was received accordingly. Papers are about to
be laid before Parliament, and in the mean-
while, Her Majesty's Government are considering the course they will pursue." From this it would seem that there is at length a prospect of the Chefoo Convention, and the
long category of questions put together were
plainly intended as a rebuke to a procrasti-
nating Government. As usual, however, Sir
CHARLES DILKE was equal to the occasion,
answering a string of apparent posers with
equal alacrity and terseness. To most of the
questions Sir CHARLES had the same laconic
reply—"I did make the statements therein
mentioned;" more than this he did not
desire to say. When at length he did not
come to real business, which was confined to the
last two or three questions of the worthy
Quaker baronet, Sir CHARLES became a little
more communicative and vouchsafed the intelligence that Sir THOMAS WADE's report
had been received, adding in reference to the
final queries—"The despatch of Lord
GRANTVILLE to Sir T. WADE referred
to asked for a telegraphic reply to a
particular inquiry, and that reply was received accordingly. Papers are about to
be laid before Parliament, and in the mean-
while, Her Majesty's Government are considering the course they will pursue." From this it would seem that there is at length a prospect of the Chefoo Convention, and the
long category of questions put together were
plainly intended as a rebuke to a procrasti-
nating Government. As usual, however, Sir
CHARLES DILKE was equal to the occasion,
answering a string of apparent posers with
equal alacrity and terseness. To most of the
questions Sir CHARLES had the same laconic
reply—"I did make the statements therein
mentioned;" more than this he did not
desire to say. When at length he did not
come to real business, which was confined to the
last two or three questions of the worthy
Quaker baronet, Sir CHARLES became a little
more communicative and vouchsafed the intelligence that Sir THOMAS WADE's report
had been received, adding in reference to the
final queries—"The despatch of Lord
GRANTVILLE to Sir T. WADE referred
to asked for a telegraphic reply to a
particular inquiry, and that reply was received accordingly. Papers are about to
be laid before Parliament, and in the mean-
while, Her Majesty's Government are considering the course they will pursue." From this it would seem that there is at length a prospect of the Chefoo Convention, and the
long category of questions put together were
plainly intended as a rebuke to a procrasti-
nating Government. As usual, however, Sir
CHARLES DILKE was equal to the occasion,
answering a string of apparent posers with
equal alacrity and terseness. To most of the
questions Sir CHARLES had the same laconic
reply—"I did make the statements therein
mentioned;" more than this he did not
desire to say. When at length he did not
come to real business, which was confined to the
last two or three questions of the worthy
Quaker baronet, Sir CHARLES became a little
more communicative and vouchsafed the intelligence that Sir THOMAS WADE's report
had been received, adding in reference to the
final queries—"The despatch of Lord
GRANTVILLE to Sir T. WADE referred
to asked for a telegraphic reply to a
particular inquiry, and that reply was received accordingly. Papers are about to
be laid before Parliament, and in the mean-
while, Her Majesty's Government are considering the course they will pursue." From this it would seem that there is at length a prospect of the Chefoo Convention, and the
long category of questions put together were
plainly intended as a rebuke to a procrasti-
nating Government. As usual, however, Sir
CHARLES DILKE was equal to the occasion,
answering a string of apparent posers with
equal alacrity and terseness. To most of the
questions Sir CHARLES had the same laconic
reply—"I did make the statements therein
mentioned;" more than this he did not
desire to say. When at length he did not
come to real business, which was confined to the
last two or three questions of the worthy
Quaker baronet, Sir CHARLES became a little
more communicative and vouchsafed the intelligence that Sir THOMAS WADE's report
had been received, adding in reference to the
final queries—"The despatch of Lord
GRANTVILLE to Sir T. WADE referred
to asked for a telegraphic reply to a
particular inquiry, and that reply was received accordingly. Papers are about to
be laid before Parliament, and in the mean-
while, Her Majesty's Government are considering the course they will pursue." From this it would seem that there is at length a prospect of the Chefoo Convention, and the
long category of questions put together were
plainly intended as a rebuke to a procrasti-
nating Government. As usual, however, Sir
CHARLES DILKE was equal to the occasion,
answering a string of apparent posers with
equal alacrity and terseness. To most of the
questions Sir CHARLES had the same laconic
reply—"I did make the statements therein
mentioned;" more than this he did not
desire to say. When at length he did not
come to real business, which was confined to the
last two or three questions of the worthy
Quaker baronet, Sir CHARLES became a little
more communicative and vouchsafed the intelligence that Sir THOMAS WADE's report
had been received, adding in reference to the
final queries—"The despatch of Lord
GRANTVILLE to Sir T. WADE referred
to asked for a telegraphic reply to a
particular inquiry, and that reply was received accordingly. Papers are about to
be laid before Parliament, and in the mean-
while, Her Majesty's Government are considering the course they will pursue." From this it would seem that there is at length a prospect of the Chefoo Convention, and the
long category of questions put together were
plainly intended as a rebuke to a procrasti-
nating Government. As usual, however, Sir
CHARLES DILKE was equal to the occasion,
answering a string of apparent posers with
equal alacrity and terseness. To most of the
questions Sir CHARLES had the same laconic
reply—"I did make the statements therein
mentioned;" more than this he did not
desire to say. When at length he did not
come to real business, which was confined to the
last two or three questions of the worthy
Quaker baronet, Sir CHARLES became a little
more communicative and vouchsafed the intelligence that Sir THOMAS WADE's report
had been received, adding in reference to the
final queries—"The despatch of Lord
GRANTVILLE to Sir T. WADE referred
to asked for a telegraphic reply to a
particular inquiry, and that reply was received accordingly. Papers are about to
be laid before Parliament, and in the mean-
while, Her Majesty's Government are considering the course they will pursue." From this it would seem that there is at length a prospect of the Chefoo Convention, and the
long category of questions put together were
plainly intended as a rebuke to a procrasti-
nating Government. As usual, however, Sir
CHARLES DILKE was equal to the occasion,
answering a string of apparent posers with
equal alacrity and terseness. To most of the
questions Sir CHARLES had the same laconic
reply—"I did make the statements therein
mentioned;" more than this he did not des

